Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 21 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Remaining unsettled into this week. Driest weather in the south-east.

This Evening and Tonight:
Occasional rain and drizzle for western, central and northern parts of England and across Wales. Drier in southeast and northern areas, a few fog patches and a touch of frost in the north. Showery and windy in northwest.

Monday:
Rain across England and Wales edging east and fading. Brighter in north after any fog clears, though the northwest stays showery and breezy. Mild for most, especially in southeast corner.

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Windy with rain then showers in the north and west, heaviest rain on Tuesday. Drier with some sunshine in the south and east. Mild overall, very mild in the southeast.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.